Sunday, Feb. 16, was the coldest day
yet had this winter and was accompanied by a high wind and drifting snow which made it a most uncomfortable day in the town. Church services were held as usual, although at the West Paris Church there was a service and thirty-seven out of thirty-eight, where they are having a service. The evening service was attended by a very few. The University of Maine cancelled all services for the week.

Ball boys and girls went to the Saturday evening and Tuesday evening games. The boys lost both times. The girls won both times.
The boys had their meetings in the evening. They had a food sale at P. H.
Store, Thursday. The office was closed.

Mothers... Watch
Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle"
in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—use the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour
for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.
Working like the trained masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimu-lates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand,
for adults and the child—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

Tamarack Talk

We are getting sick of war books, war books and still more war books. They are not what they're cracked up to be; they aren't peace propaganda at all and they do more harm than good. Yet they sell there is a great market for them, and people read them. Why? Because they enjoy them. We do not read what we do not enjoy reading and writers do not write what they do not enjoy writing. The still increasing demand for books on the war shows that people are not yet grown out of a too human craving for satisfying the bellicose instincts of man.

It is a sorry fact that in a time when we want peace so much (or seem to) that we are doing the very things that present to our progress toward world harmony and friendliness. That persons want to hear and see and read about war is only too obvious. That they want to do so in order to learn not to fight is all bunk!

They like to hear about war, they like to read about war, they like to see it. They have an age-old idea that there is a great amount of adventure connected with it and even if a writer may give his book to the public and tell them outright that it is not adventure they won't see it that way. For there is a glamour, a mystery, an uncanny attraction to war. And they just can't help it. So that is what we are up against—education of the masses of humanity away from the idea of any kind of fighting.

When you see children playing, pointing fingers for guns (if not guns themselves) and a "boom," falling down, what does it mean? It means that that child has some conception of the idea of killing another person, and as he sees more "killer" movies and more war pictures what can you expect, but that he will take war and killing as a natural sequence in the affairs of men.

"The Big Parade" is a wonderful film, but what good does it do or has it done. I saw it and the only thing I like to remember is the big Sledge marching forth through the forest spitting an occasional stream of tobacco juice from his big mouth. The rest of it has a glamour, a thrill, and you can't deny it. A recount of way plays upon the human instincts and we get that shiver up your spine and you, too, want to shoulder a gun and take a whack at the enemy.

This is a false feeling of patriotism. It is not the fine spirit that we should feel when we think of defending our country in its work as the leader in striving for world peace.

What we need today is a world patriotism. The age of nationalism passed with the World War. We are entering upon an era of Internationalism and devotion to mankind should supersede a too narrow minded nationalistic viewpoint.

We should not even think of the war. We don't want war books now. We want to be told how to exist together, how to live and thrive constructively with one another. We don't even want any books on how to bring about peace, either by limiting navies or armies or forming federations.

If we could have a war-less consciousness, a war-less thought, constructive minds, not thinking of peace (which is a word of war), then would come indeed the "healing of the nations". —Tam.

CLEAN, PURE MILK

Is it not clean, pure milk from healthy cows and produced under sanitary conditions, that the public wants, should have and will soon demand? Is not the proper housing of cattle, with direct light, correct ventilation, suitable drainage, pure drinking water, a system that will cool milk quickly, cleanliness, general sanitation, etc., necessary to the production of such milk?

Are not the consuming public always ready to pay the price for clean and wholesome foodstuffs? Why not a substantial premium on quality milk that would stimulate the dairymen's interest and make possible such improvements? Would they not appreciate an incentive rather than a command?

Would not conditions as mentioned above, serve to destroy practically all cause for tubercular and most other diseases of cattle?

It was my privilege, and pleasure, to spend a week-end last summer with a New York dairymen who was a producer of Grade A milk. This man told me that his premium check for quality alone for the month previous, was $125.00.

Although I have no cattle, I am interested in the farmers and their welfare, for no man can afford to neglect his property is necessary to that of all industries and to the progress of our country as a whole.

Thrift is a composite quality. It embraces within itself nearly all of the great virtues. It implies industry, prudence, forethought, self-denial. It certainly has no relation to niggardliness or meanness.

What Uncle Lem Says

When one fires and the shot goes wide of the mark, there is a natural feeling of disappointment, but it is otherwise when it takes effect near the "bull's eye."

It seems that your Uncle Lemuel's discharge at Ex-Governor Ralph C. Brewster's candidacy for the U. S. Senate in the Advertiser, struck over in the western part of the county, and hit an over-sensitive partisan of Mr. Brewster, where at we laugh, while he feels called upon to indulge in personal abuse and a tirade unworthy of him and of his notice. It is not of the slightest importance who he is or I am, but what we say and do. And it is only necessary here to state that by his making no reply to my charge that the ex-Governor had changed his mind from two years ago—thus opening him to the accusation of insincerity—was an admission of its truth. And also that the principles I advocated being fully endorsed by him, the inference is conclusive that the ex-Governor, nor any of his thick and thin partisans had formulated any measures, or endeavored to do so to carry them into effect to bring relief to the farmers and overburdened taxpayers.

The fact that Mr. Brewster changed his residence from Portland to Dexter so as to make it appear in his canvass for votes that he was the candidate of Eastern Maine simply gave occasion for me to flub him as the "Portland" candidate.

This episode with the ex-Governor's thick and thin partisan friend has given your Uncle Lemuel the opportunity to emphasize some of the points against Mr. Brewster's candidacy which the people should not lose sight of.

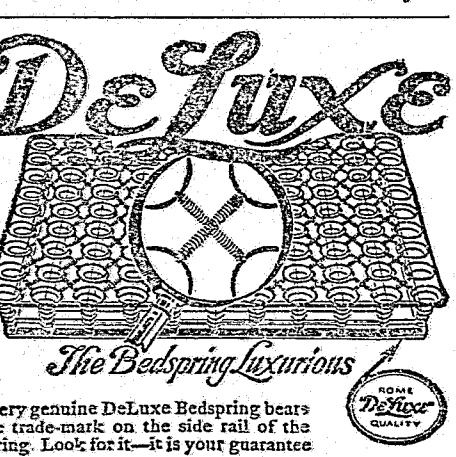

When one puts himself forward as a candidate for office, he becomes the subject of popular criticism. There is no avoiding against Mr. Brewster's private character that I know or ever heard of that should detract him from being a member of the U. S. Senate. It is his public acts while Governor, his change of office, and what is believed—except by his thick and thin partisans—what he might do if elected. This all counts against him.

Owen, the able political correspondent of the Press-Herald in the last "Sunday Telegram" stated that Mr. Brewster had changed from being a Radical. Has he really? When did this change occur? And if he has changed and has now no sympathy with the "wild west" of the prairie, might he not change back, if elected Senator? These are vital questions, in his contest for the office he seeks and they cannot be brushed aside by any ## personal attacks upon those who oppose him.

We lost confidence in him, but not for any personal reasons—during his last term of office as Governor of Maine, and we determined then never under any circumstances to vote for him for any office whatever. From a quite extensive acquaintance, we are able to state that in this your Uncle Lemuel is not the only pebble on the beach, and at this stage in the canvass, there seems to be the least doubt that the ex-Governor's hopes will be blasted when the votes are counted, as they were two years ago.

Ex-Mayor John Wilson of Bangor has at last decided that he courts the notoriety of being a candidate for Governor this year against Gov. Wm. Tudor Gardner. That's about all it will amount to, except to utterly destroy his chances of being selected as the Governor's successor in 1932.

The Disarmament Conference at London seems to be working towards the accomplishment of the objects designed by President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald. The only discordant note of moment comes from our little Fred Hale, the mouthpiece of the Big Navy. Thanks to the support of the "wild asses" in the Senate, led by Borah, the President will be able to carry through his measures for world peace, in defiance of our Maine Senator.

This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores, Keller Laboratory, Mechanicville, Ohio, or locally at L. V. Ashton's, Druggist.
